

Staffan Lundström, MD PhD is a consultant in palliative medicine at Stockholms Sjukhem Foundation. He has specialist degrees in medical and radiation oncology and pain management, and a Swedish Diploma in Palliative Medicine. In 2007, Dr. Lundström received his PhD in Oncology Pathology from the Karolinska Institute after completing his thesis on "Corticosteroids in advanced cancer: epidemiology, symptom relief and patient experiences." He has recently spent a one-year sabbatical as a Scholar-in-Residence at the Institute for Palliative Medicine at San Diego Hospice, California, USA. Dr. Lundström is actively involved in research in the area of pain management, symptom relief and quality aspects of end-of-life care. He has extensive teaching experiences and is actively involved in undergraduate and graduate education in palliative medicine and pain management in both medicine and nursing.